Prescott Game to Be Played in Hope This Friday Night

Prescott Officials to Have Charge of All Ticket Sales
BIGGER CROWD SEEN
Captain Joe Eason Goes to Backfield—Jones Takes Over End Post

Hope High School officials announced Tuesday that arrangements had been completed to play the Hope-Prescott football game at Hope Friday night—instead of at Prescott as originally scheduled.

Under the new arrangement, Prescott school officials will have charge of the ticket sales. The Prescott National Guard will be on duty to supervise the parking of automobiles.

Captain Joe Eason of Prescott announced that the admission price would be 25 cents for students and 50 cents for adults.

Season football tickets held by Hope persons will not be good. All Hope persons will pay either 25 cents or 50 cents at the entrance gate, students being admitted for 25, adults 50 cents.

Hope fans holding box seats and reserve seats will be entitled to them as usual. Hope fans will occupy the west section of the stadium as usual. Hope Band Auxiliary will have charge of concessions.

Captain Storey announced that the game was being transferred to Hope because of inadequate seating facilities at the Prescott field.

Eason to Backfield
Coach Foy Hammons announced Tuesday that he had switched Captain Joe Eason from end to his old position at fullback to give the Bobcat backfield added power. J. D. Jones, 200-pounder, has taken over Eason's end post.

Hammons reported that Eason "looked good in running the line" during practice Monday afternoon. Eason also will be used as a linebacker on the defense.

Hammons reported that Jimmy Simms, the "find" of the season, played a great defensive game at Blytheville and may get the starting assignment in the backfield Friday night.

In that event the backfield combination would be Ellen at quarter, Eason at fullback, Baker and Simms at halfback posts.

The Bobcats came out of the Blytheville game in good shape with the exception of David Coleman, who sustained a knee injury that kept him out of practice Monday, and Baker who has a foot injury. Both, however, are expected to be ready by Friday.

Wind whipped the flames to a barn nearby which was also destroyed along with feedstuff and farm implements.

The fire is believed to have started inside a closet in the Mayton home. No estimate was given as to the total loss.

Like Many Husbands He Was Forgetful

FORT MORGAN, Colo. —(AP)—"He's been awfully absent-minded lately," said a middle-aged lady from California who called the state highway patrol office and explained her husband had driven off without her at Bldish, Colo., when they stopped for gas.

Forty miles down the road the state patrolman who was sent in pursuit drove alongside the absent-minded husband. The man glanced back and at he did so his eyes rested on the vacant back seat. He slammed on the brakes.

"My God," he shouted. "I've lost my wife."

"Yeah," said the officer. "I come to tell you."

Mayor's Proclamation

The American Red Cross, in facing its greatest peace-time test, this year appeals to the American public for a million more members to support its constant battle against human suffering.

During the past year we have been drawn closer to the Red Cross through its far-flung disaster relief, its aid to the innocent non-combatants of war, as well as through its daily services designed to stamp out misery in the form of disease and the ever-present threat of accidental death.

Those of us who have seen the Red Cross grow in recent years can understand the need for a million more members. The natural phenomena of disaster and the dangers of a mechanized age continue to be the source of suffering and accidental death. We must recognize that the ability of this great organization to serve is directly proportionate to the membership support of the public.

This year's appeal of the Red Cross for your support will be made November 11-20. Our community has never failed to respond to the Red Cross call for assistance; and for this reason, I feel confident that we shall be proud to enroll our share of the million more members.

As Mayor of Hope, I designate this period as the time all members will have an opportunity to renew their affiliation and to afford those who have not enrolled an opportunity to help the Red Cross help others.

Kellogg Honored for Peace Attempt, Though It Didn't Work

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of a series of stories on the men who built the international peace movement. It will be followed by a story rounding up the present day organized effort for peace.

By WILLIS THORNTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

To another American fell the leadership in still another attack on war—the effort to outlaw it, to get the nations to promise not to fall back on force, which they declared an illegal means of attaining their ends.

This was Frank Billings Kellogg, secretary of state for President Coolidge until 1929.

Almost every conceivable approach to the problem of war had been made before that time. Ancient civilizations tried to create a single power so strong that no one would dare attack it, thus enforcing peace.

Grotius and his followers tried to set down laws for nations as nations set them down for individuals. Nicholas II tried to open an era of peace by conference and arbitration.

Nobel and Carnegie sought peace by publicity, and 1000 noble men and women worked for peace by pressure and for the sake of morality. Wilson attempted an association of nations—an "international government."

Oklahoma Area to Lift Ban On Deer Saturday

IDABEL, Okla. —For the first time in two years, the shooting of deer will be permitted this year in the southeastern counties of Oklahoma this season, beginning November 11 and closing November 16.

Rangers have reported that illegal killing of deer has been less than in many years, leading to the belief that game will be plentiful and that there will be as many hunters as during 1937.

Meantime, 16,000 fish have been placed in Mountain Fork river during the last few days and 67,000 fish were placed in streams of McCurtain county during the last three weeks.

Hull Critical of U. S. Ship Transfer

Secretary Hits Transfer From U. S. to Panama Registry

Hull expressed Tuesday his opposition to the transfer to Panamanian registry of United States Lines ships, as impairing the integrity of the neutrality act.

Hull said he had given this opinion to the Maritime Commission. He did not indicate what the commission's reaction was.

At his press conference, Hull recalled that on Monday he told the Maritime Commission there was no question of foreign policy involved in the transfer, but that his opinion was given in the absence of virtually any facts.

Transfer U. S. Ships

WASHINGTON —(AP)—The Maritime Commission Monday permitted the United States Lines to transfer eight of its transatlantic vessels to registry under the Republic of Panama, a step which will allow them to carry goods to the belligerents of Europe.

Commissioner Max O'Rell "Truitt" discussing the commission's approval of the company's transfer applications, said there was no contravention of the Neutrality act, which forbids American-flag ships to go to the danger zone.

"I don't see any element of a dodge at all; I think it's a completely sound, bona fide situation all around," Truitt said. "Congress unquestionably intended to keep the United States flag from going down in the brine and to keep United States seamen from losing their lives."

"But nowhere in the act does it say

Alienation of Italy, Loss of Neutral Sympathy, Worry Nazis

Germany Paying for Her Russian Alliance With Loss of Friends in the Balkan Area

Evidence of displeasure in Fascist Italy over the Russo-German partnership continues to mount. The Italian press ignored the anniversary of the completion of the German-Italian-Japanese anti-Comintern pact, November 6, 1937.

Instead, orders for further expansion of the Italian army came from Premier Mussolini and the Rome press recalled that the day was the anniversary of the end of World War hostilities for Italy, a time when Italy was an ally of France and Britain against Germany.

There were no exchanges of mutual felicitations between Berlin, Rome and Tokio over their one-time anti-Comintern partnership which was based on the contention that Russian Communism was the greatest menace to world peace. That served to emphasize the fact that Germany, in her new relationship with Russia, is finding herself increasingly isolated. She has paid a heavy price for the aid that Moscow has given or can give her.

Neutrals Worry Nazis
There can be small doubt that this new form of "entente" — the drift of sentiment against her among Balkan, Scandinavian and Mediterranean neutrals — is worrying Nazi leaders. It probably accounts, as much as does the bad weather, for the continued hull in the fighting.

Repeat of the American arms embargo would appear, however, to be a factor which Germany must consider in continuing to delay. In February, 1937, when imperial Germany renewed unrestricted submarine warfare, she

Two Neutrals to Offer Services on Eve of Real War

Wilhelmina, Leopold Foresee War Beginning in Earnest

GERMANY IS IRATE

Press Attacks Hague Conference for "Paper Resolutions"

AMSTERDAM, Holland —(AP)—Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands and King Leopold of the Belgians Tuesday announced that they would send messages to Germany, Britain and France jointly offering their good offices for peace.

The offer, to be made to the heads of state of the warring powers, will be as follows, an official announcement said:

"In an hour of anxious tension for the world, before war in Western Europe begins with full power, we are convinced that we are obligated to make our voices heard again."

"The belligerents declared some time ago that they are not standing obstinately against any examination of a reasonable, fixed basis of a reasonable peace."

"We consider in the actual circumstances it is difficult for the belligerents to seek contact with one another; and as sovereigns of two neutral states which have good relations with all neighbors we are willing to offer our good offices."

Germany Hits Neutrals

BERLIN, Germany —(AP)—The Berlin press, with a unanimity indicating orders from higher up, Tuesday criticized in identical words the meeting of King Leopold of the Belgians with Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands.

"The alleged defense by neutrals against England's blockade practice, contrary to international law as it is, has been restricted to paper protests and lame resolutions behind closed doors," all the papers said.

Captions over dispatches from The Hague indicated German dissatisfaction.

British War Loan

LONDON, Eng. —(AP)—Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, introduced a resolution in the House of Commons Tuesday empowering the treasury to borrow up to one billion dollars for financing the war.

The chancellor described the resolution as "similar to those given by the last war."

R. H. Cross minister for economic warfare, told the house that Britain seized 420,500 tons of merchandise as contraband in the first two months of the war.

Russians Celebrate

MOSCOW, Russia —(AP)—Soviet Russia capped her celebration of the 22nd anniversary of the Communist revolution with a display of military might Tuesday as War Commissar Klement Voroshilov warned Russia that although neutral the nation "must be prepared."

Voroshilov spoke briefly in Red Square, through which thousands of troops marched in a parade that lasted more than an hour and a half.

Cotton Loans at 8.3c on 1939 Crop

Location Differentials Are Also Provided for This Year

WASHINGTON —(AP)—The Department of Agriculture announced Tuesday it would make loans available to growers on this year's cotton crop at a base rate of 8.3 cents per pound.

The loan program provides advances for location differentials under which cotton stored near principal markets would be eligible for a higher rate than cotton stored under loan at remote points.

An Election Is Just Around the Corner

In case you're forgotten, Nov. 7 is election day in most states. It will be practically the same as any other Tuesday. It will be the usual spectacle of an election in the children's year before a presidential election.

Voters in California and Ohio, however, are anything but apathetic. Both states have old-age pension referenda and political commitment from both sides has kept voters aware of the issue. In New York political politicians want to legislate partial repeal of the state constitution and let the state take its share of the state.

Conservatives in California and Ohio are frankly worried. The mere fact that enough favorable interest was aroused by the pension advocates to get the question on the ballot in these two states is evidence enough that the reformers have a chance of getting the voters' stamp of approval. And if that happens—
The painful memories of California's 1913-1914 pension plan to all those persons over 65 years of age who were unable to support themselves in California and Ohio. Colorado, it seems, is gradually going broke. And this state's liberal pension plan is more likely to be repealed than the pension plan in California and Ohio are.

The California "ham and egg" plan calls for a $30 weekly payment to all unemployed over the age of 50. Ohio's Cleveland Herbert Bagelows is slightly less radical in his plan to give everyone above the age of 60 a guaranteed income of $10 a month to $16 a month for a couple. Budget experts in both states disagree with pension experts on the costs of the two plans. Statisticians, it seems, can't quite make the figures balance.

A few other states have an idea of importance largely to their own citizens.
Legislators will be expected in Virginia, New Jersey and Kentucky. A governor will also be chosen by Kentuckians.

About 150 cities are electing council members or are voting on local referenda.

The elections have virtually no significance as far as 1940 presidential possibilities are concerned. But they will be a reminder that a presidential election is only a year away. All the fanfare, talk-shows, conventional campaigns are yet to come. The recently debate has already delayed the political growth of citizens of nations which flourished during the spring and summer and then withered miserably while the nation turned to a "non-political" topic.

One of them is freezing. If you are indoors in cold weather; but if you trousers and thick boots or shoes.

In that way you may avoid frost bite, chilblains or frozen feet.

Many children are injured by falls hunting, however, to be subject to this danger. Other people, particularly those who are walking on the ice, may be walking on a thin layer of ice and not know it. They may slip

The sportsman pursuing game in winter should remember the dangers connected with walking on thin ice.
The one who thinks it is not safe, he may know that will hold one person thick will hold a large group.

Thick coats and small wounds, not dangerous. Sometimes such injuries are fatal. Blood poisoning may appear after a small injury, such as a wound from a splinter of wood, running up the arm or the leg. There will be a fever and after 24 hours

the patient will be seriously ill.

Any cut, scratch or puncture of the skin should be carefully cleaned and treated with a mixture of iodine or other antiseptic solution. A gun-attention at the earliest possible moment.

on and keep that rod covered.
Some day you're gonna get too careless."

Ed took out a deck of cards and started playing casino with Sam.
Every two minutes he raised his head and looked at Joan and Dan quickly.

"Secured?" Dan asked her quietly.

"I'd be a liar if I said I wasn't,"
she replied in a low voice.

"I think you're safe enough,"
he said. "That is, if your father comes through."

He frowned slightly. "That big guy said your father could raise four times that much in an hour.
He can do that unless . . .
unless . . ." He hesitated.

"Unless he's rolling in dough?"
"Pop thinks I'm worth $50,000.
I think," she replied evasively.

"Lucky these guys aren't interested in ransom for one Dan Webber. There isn't anyone who would raise 5 cents for me," he muttered gloomily.

"Wonder how much Coach Slocum would give for you right about now."

"Don't remind me of that. Every time I think of rotting around this dump Saturday, I could howl!"

He lowered his voice to a mere whisper. "We've got to get out of here."

"You've got to, you mean. Fifty thousand will take care of me. If you get your chance, just forget about me."

She got a kick out of his reply.
"Say something like that again and I'll whack you one," he growled.

THEY heard the motor of a car coming down the road. Ed got up and looked out the window.

"It's Rocco," he said, and relaxed.
The sedan crunched up to the drive. "Run it into the barn," Big Ed called. "Keep it out sight."

Rocco came in a minute later, his arms laden with bundles.

"Well?" asked Ed.

"Okay," said Rocco. "I called Alex from a pay station in a drug store . . . didn't go far into town . . ."

"Tech . . . yeah, go ahead . . ."

"Alex says the old guy climbed right up on his hind legs. Alex had one of the boys tail him . . .
he ain't foolin', either . . . and he ain't wastin' time out this way."

"Let 'im come," said Ed. "He's gonna play our rules anyhow. He ain't even gonna come close. But if he does . . ."

"He focused glittering eyes on Joan."

Dan looked at Big Ed and read the expression on his face. A cold rage flared within him.

"You big gorilla . . . lay a hand on her and I'll take you apart!"

Big Ed stared down on him, hands on hips. "Look who's taking who apart, would ya?"

He walked over and lifted a menacing hand. "Why, you flip punk, you . . . I oughta . . ."

"Cut it, Ed," said Rocco. "He ain't gonna do anything to you.
These kids just shoot their mouths off without thinking. Anyway, let's put on the feed bag."

"That's a swell idea," said Sam, moving toward the groceries Rocco had brought back.

"How about letting me help?"
Joan asked.

Big Ed showed his surprise.
"Sure, sister, but I can't imagine you being very much of a hand at this." He smirked.

"All you've got to do is show me how to operate that coal-oil stove there. That's a new one on me."

SHE and Sam took charge. They had ham, green beans, and coffee. "And we got cherry pie, too," said Rocco, pointing to another package. "We get fancy whenever we have company."

"Haw!" Sam laughed.

Dan didn't think it so funny.
"That town is getting nuts over that football game Saturday," Rocco remarked after supper.

Big Ed turned on him with exasperation in his voice. "Darn-n't, can't you forget about football for a while? Football, football, football! That's all I hear for the last three months outa you."

"I can pick 'em, can't I?" Rocco grinned. "I'm ahead three grand for the season . . . and I'm gonna pick up a nice chunk Saturday, too."

"Huh?"

CHILDREN'S frequent COLDS

For relieving discomfort of chest colds and night coughs, rub VapoRub on throat, chest, and back at bedtime. VapoRub's soothing vapor action relieves congestion of upper air passages—eases soreness of chest and back muscles—helps the youngster relax into healing sleep.

For coughing and irritated throat caused by colds, put VapoRub on the child's tongue to relieve the irritation. Then massage VapoRub on throat and chest.

For "sniffles" and misery of head colds, melt VapoRub in a bowl of boiling water. Have the child breathe in the steamy vapors. This loosens phlegm, clears air passages, makes breathing easier. Also massage VapoRub on throat and chest. Millions of families use these three time-tested treatments.

deliberately risked war with the United States in the hope that victory could be achieved before American military power could make itself felt in the struggle. Nazi officialdom may believe that the opening to the Allies of American sources of vital war supplies represents a future rather than an immediate threat to Germany's hopes of at least a stalemate victory.

It will take time and financial wizardry for Britain and France to capitulate fully on that development. Stepping up combat airplane production for the Allies either in the United States or in Canada is not something that can be accomplished overnight. Until it is stepped up, Germany still has her reputed superior air power as a weapon with which to strike for early victory.

Germany Without a Friend

The continued withholding of a German attack some believe, masks Nazi hopes that a negotiated peace may yet be obtained. Intimations that Paris and London are preparing to restate their war aims could account for German reluctance to press the war to the threatened "bloodbath" conclusion. Yet the unanimous rejection of the role of peacemaker by all neutrals following Hitler's recent bid for such intervention creates doubt as to where Germany might look for an agent through whom to renew her peace offensive.

Any new German peace drive, to fall in with tradition, would require some startling new German military or naval success as a springboard. Instead, Berlin has witnessed within the weeks since consummation of her Polish campaign, a steady deterioration in her strategic position due both to neutral action and to Allied war measures at sea. That of itself serves to set world nerves on edge for some dramatic German move to break the battle full.

an American citizen couldn't operate a foreign flag vessel with a foreign crew."

Title to the vessels will be transferred to a Panamanian corporation. They will carry the Panama flag and will be manned by crews other than United States citizens. Under the Neutrality act, American citizens as well as crews are ruled out of the combat zones. Principal trade of the United States Lines, a private corporation, has been with British, French and Irish ports, all in the combat area.

Traut said the federal government has no financial interest in the vessels to be transferred. It has been granting operating subsidies but these will cease. The commission holds mortgages on two ships of the company, the Manhattan and the Washington, and they will remain under the United States flag, probably in Latin-American trade.

The company applied for the transfer of nine vessels, but approval was given only for eight. Seven of these are the 7,500-ton cargo-passenger carriers: American Banker, American Farmer, American Importer, American Merchant, American Shipper, American can Trader, and American Traveler. The eighth will be either the Roosevelt or the Harding, in the company's discretion. They are 13,369-ton liners.

Arkansas and Rice to Battle Saturday

Porker-Owl Fray to Be Billed As "Cellar" Crown Game

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. — (AP) — Sore in body and spirit from the worst Homecoming Day defeat ever suffered by a University of Arkansas eleven—the 27-0 trimming administered by Texas A. and M.—Coach Fred Thomson's Porkers went through a long but light drill Monday in preparation for a "consolation" game against the Rice Institute Owls at Houston Saturday.

The Razorbacks, defeated in their last three conference games, came out of the one-sided Aggie tussle with no serious casualties. Halfback Kay Eakin was removed from the game in the final period after 35 minutes of bruising action, but reported Monday in good condition. Statistics showed he bore the brunt of Arkansas' fruitless attack, handling the ball three out of five times.

Rice has no better standing in the Southwest circuit than Arkansas and the game is billed as a "cellar championship." The Owls beat Arkansas 3-0 here last year. This season they have won only one game in six starts and bowed to the Texas University Longhorns in their only conference tilt.

The Razorbacks, in addition to their three conference beatings, have lost two other games and won one conference engagement from Texas Christian University. They also hold a win over the Central Oklahoma Teachers.

Pact of Paris Led

diplomat to try to make war illegal, and outlaw.

Kellogg, born in New York state, went to Minnesota to study and practice law, and was elected to the senate. He was a delegate to the Fifth Pan-American conference at Santiago in 1923, and to the sixth, at Havana in 1928.

As Secretary of State Kellogg was active in the Geneva naval limitation conference of 1927 between Great Britain, Japan and the United States. He tried to compose the Tientsin-Archie dispute by discussions between Chile, Peru and Bolivia.

His most important achievement was the "Pact of Paris," in which 15 nations renounced war as an instrument of national policy in their relations with one another.

"Illegal War" No New Idea
The idea had not been original with Kellogg. Thinkers on the subject had for centuries envisioned the truly effective attack on war as making it illegal, depriving it of its status as a recognized means of attaining national objectives.

In 1927 Premier Briand of France proposed a treaty between the United States and France in which each renounced war for all time as an instrument against the other. From this grew the desire to extend the plan, and after eight months of conference at Fairs, on August 28, 1928, there was signed a multilateral treaty renouncing war.

Original signers included Germany, the United States, Belgium, France, Britain, Italy, Japan, Poland, and Czechoslovakia. This time the United States ratified the treaty the following year without reservation.

By mid-1929, a total of 45 nations had ratified this treaty. It is short and simple, pledging each to use war no more in attaining national objectives.

Hopes for Harmony Among Nations
Although a certain cynicism had begun already to grow up regarding international pledges, Kellogg seemed justified in saying, "It is not too much to hope that through their adoption of and adherence to the principles embodied in the Pact, the nations of the world are entering on an era of better understanding in their dealings with one another."

So it might have been if good faith had matched intentions. There may be some significance yet in the fact that no country yet admits breaking the treaty.

Kellogg, again, did not live to see the complete nullification of his gallant effort to make of war an outlaw. He died in 1937.

Almost as old as war itself, then, is this war on war. Each of its small victories is followed by a great defeat.

Yet the fight goes on, and behind the war spirit in every country now fighting in Europe, there is pressure for peace, a pressure which shows that the work of the thousands of devoted men and women who have worked for peace has not been quite in vain.

Crickets Hide, Science Seeks

MILES CITY, Mont. — (AP) — What happens to Mormon crickets when they disappear? Science doesn't know but would like to find out. Since 1933 crickets have plagued the countryside near here and throughout most of southeastern Montana and northeastern Wyoming.

There were millions of them. Early this spring they appeared in great numbers in most parts of the area they long had infested.

"But by mid-season they had disappeared almost entirely," says N. A. Jacobsen, Custer and Powder River county agent. There were practically none of them by late summer.

"And yet no dead crickets were found and there were no reports of the crickets appearing in other areas," said Jacobsen.

"Science has records showing that crickets have the habit of disappearing mysteriously, but scientists tell me they are as mystified as I am."
